

NEXT YEAR'S TEACHERS IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

At a called meeting of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon the appointments of teachers for the public schools of the Territory, for the term beginning September 10, 1906, were submitted by the teachers' committee as printed below. The allotment of salaries made by the committee was also read by the Superintendent, after which the entire report was approved and adopted, on motion of Mr. A. I. seconded by Mr. Dodge. Other business done was executive in character.

With Superintendent W. H. Babbitt the following commissioners were present: Mrs. H. Wilcox, Mrs. J. M. Dowsett, W. R. Farrington, David L. Al and Frank R. Dodge. Inspectors Wells and King and Miss Smith, secretary, were in attendance.

In reply to a question by Mr. Dodge, the Superintendent said that all of the transfers were not made in response to the requests of the teachers affected. Some were transferred contrary to their expressed desires.

After the adoption of the report Mr. Babbitt suggested that it be distinctly understood that appointments be made from year to year. Of course it was understood that teachers should as a rule hold their positions from year to year, but with no restriction on the Department to make any change that might be deemed advisable.

The Superintendent expressed high praise for the work of the teachers' committee.

It was agreed that alternate Mondays would be suitable for regular meetings of the Board, but, as Mrs. Wilcox was going away and Mr. Dodge would be in Hilo on Monday after first, the next meeting was set for the call of the chair.

BROTHER DUTTON, THE HERO OF THE LEPER SETTLEMENT

BRO. JOSEPH DUTTON, GOD'S GOOD MAN AT THE LEPER SETTLEMENT.

Regarded as a hero by President Roosevelt and conveying them to the national cemeteries set aside for their term where they would be honored a martyr in the cause of humanity and by all future generations. Then, his Christianity, Brother Dutton has been working to care for the heroic dead, buried for twenty years at the settlement of the battlefield. Now, it is to care for the living dead, those afflicted with the leprosy, the lepers segregated the dread disease of leprosy.

Not once in that whole period it is little wonder, then, that one has the devoted man left the settlement when Governor Carter entered, and but once has he looked back Brother Dutton's little house in which over the road by which he went there he has his laboratory, treatment room, from the landing place at Kalaupapa, library and living quarters, he found Brother Dutton's career, at least that in the sitting room an American flag little known to the people of the island draped across one end. The Governor wailan Islands, has been one of long had not noticed it on a former visit and devotion in the cause of stricken lepers, asked why it happened to be so dismanly. But much of his life seems played.

That one time when Brother Dutton looked back toward Kalaupapa forms a mysterious incident in his life at Kalaupapa. According to a close friend of Brother Dutton, this occurred when he had been at Kalaupapa seventeen years. Late one afternoon, when the sun was slanting its beams upon the hillsides and bathing them in tropical splendor, Bro. Dutton walked slowly out of Kalaupapa, and, mounting the slopes, arrived at a place from which he could look back to Kalaupapa several miles away.

At Kalaupapa, the steamer makes its landings and all who come to the settlement disembark there. Between Kalaupapa and Kalaupapa is a connecting road, and it was over that road that Brother Dutton traveled when he first arrived at the settlement. He remained on the hillside until the sun went down and returned to Kalaupapa after dark, nevermore to leave his beaten track.

What was in that long look back over the road to Kalaupapa? Was it regret, was it longing, or was it the desire to once more gaze upon the way leading back to healthful civilization and the wide-world, and then to shut it out of his life forever? A thousand conjectures arise based upon this incident, but it is not to be thought that Brother Dutton for one moment faltered in his determination to remain to the end of his days ministering to the wants of the afflicted ones for whom he cares day and night.

It may not be generally known that Brother Dutton had a short career in the army, or, at least, that he was connected with the United States army after the Civil War. His work then and now form a strange contrast, yet they are peculiarly linked, for then he was in the corps to which was assigned the ghastly task of reclaiming the dead soldiers from the Southern battle, and now he is ministering to the living. Some time ago Brother Dutton sat down to write a picture and copies of it were mailed to him in the settlement, but to send to Governor Carter at his request the medical work at large. To few and to various persons away from persons has Brother Dutton spoken of here. The autograph of Brother Dutton's part, Governor Carter has had to adopt each one. He sent one to some interesting talks with him and the history of the good man desired to return his thanks for the gift, and wished to attach some sentiment to an autograph picture of his own. He was at a loss with what to say upon it until Secretary Atkinson one day called upon him and they had a conversation about the matter. The result was that the President's picture was adorned with the following sentiment: "With my highest respect and esteem to Brother Dutton, Theodore Roosevelt."

The personality of Brother Dutton is exceedingly interesting to those who have been fortunate in meeting him. Kindness beams from his eyes and it is easy to see in the benevolent expression upon his face that he regards his task in the same light that the Master did when he went among similarly-afflicted people in Palestine. He is always busy. There is no time in the whole twenty-four hours that he is not ready to minister to the wants of those with whom he comes in contact. He is beloved by the people in his charge. There is no sacrifice he would not make for them. He is always to be found in the enclosure of the Baldwin Home for Boys and he never steps out of it except to cross the narrow road to enter the Catholic church. It was this same church that Father Damien of revered memory attended and in its little yard the body of the martyr priest now reposes in a simple tomb.

Brother Dutton is a man of wide learning, not only in medicine, but his literary attainments are high. He has a well-equipped library and laboratory. He dresses in simple fashion, the picture herewith even showing the jumper which he almost invariably wears instead of a coat. His long beard gives him a venerable appearance. It is understood he came here from Cincinnati. Although called Brother Dutton, he is not in orders in the Catholic church, of which he is a devoted communicant.

A HYGIENIC ENTHUSIAST SAYS LAVA CURES ALL

NEW YORK, July 26.—J. Riggs has beaten Ponce de Leon at his own game. He says health and youthful feeling are bound to follow the consumption of lava.

Mr. Riggs is a member of the Hygienic Association of Zurich, Switzerland. He lives in Clifton, N. J., and it is said, has lived some time in the Granite State, i. e., Maine, where he became convinced of the value of lava as a cure-all.

If you would be healthy chew lava. If you can't get lava take a bite of granite or a tasty bit of gneiss. That, in substance, is the advice of Mr. Riggs.

Corns will just fade away; the discolored becomes a pleasure; and as for lumbago, gout, falling hair, growing pains or warts, they flee at the sight of a dose of "23." Even nostalgia and mal de mer are not proof against its persuasive powers. The only thing you can die of is old age or accident, but it is not made plain that the former will not yield to the blandishments of lava, properly administered.

POOR FOOD CAUSE OF ILLS.

According to the idea which Mr. Riggs claims to have successfully demonstrated, all diseases of plants, animals and men are due to improper nutrition. Life is in reality nothing more than a continual motion between opposing poles, he maintains. Wherever polaric currents have produced a normal mixture of the atmosphere, we breathe easily, for the reason that polaric air is the best and most rational food for the respiratory organs. On the same theory, he claims, polaric nutrition is the best and most efficient blood former.

Diseased, weakened and abnormal life, Mr. Riggs maintains, discloses the presence of parasites, and the properties that are found in lava will, he contends, neutralize the effect of these parasites and restore healthy organism.

"When lava, thousands of years ago," said Mr. Riggs, "flowed over the surface of the earth, the wealth of minerals that it contained became the center of a marvelously luxurious vegetation. Lava, among all the products of this earth, possesses the greatest productive force, and its qualities contain elements that will cure all diseases of plants, vegetables and animals."

"Lava contains six mineral ingredients forming compounds with acids, as well as six acid-forming minerals. Potash, soda, lime, magnesia, iron and manganese are the alkaline salts forming compounds with acids, while phosphorus, sulphur, silicon, chlorine, fluorine and carbonic acid make up the six acid-forming minerals."

BEST FOOD FOR PLANTS.

"The cultivated plants of the modern farmer are largely dependent upon acid-forming minerals for their food, and, consequently, the blood of the consumers of such vegetables and plants becomes charged with and contains a large surplus of acids."

"A lack of aniline blood means a lack of strength and vigor, and whenever the blood has lost these necessary qualities parasites never fail to appear. Acid sap and acid blood are poisonous to plants, animals and men."

"Our hard and rocky mountains represent the sap or blood of plants, animals and men in solid form. The rational mixture of all the component parts of the earth produces the most ideal strength and the best blood. Hard and soft parts of the earth, or rock and soil, must be intermixed if the highest physical and mental capacity is to be attained."

"Lava is the creator of force in plant life. Those whose blood has been built up by lava-fertilized food will never become subject to disease. The entire horde of destructive plant diseases is curable by means of lava, and all crops can be improved from 50 to 100 per cent. by its use, or rather by rationally mixed powdered rock as fertilizer."

"Not only has our grain become infested with millions of parasites which thrive on the acidulated sap, but our potato plants have suffered no less serious damage."

"The root louse, which has devastated thousands of the finest vineyards in California and Europe, appeared as a result of disturbances in the nutrition of the vines, in a similar manner as the germs of disease infest the human organism."

"Worms in apples, pears, figs, cherries and nuts are another pest due to insufficient and nonpolaric plant food. Lava fertilization alone will affect an infallible cure."
